Westmoor High School’s Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA)

For years, Westmoor High School’s Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA) chapter has been involved in a partnership with the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce. This connection has benefited both organizations in a multitude of positive and enriching ways. One aspect of FBLA that is emphasized to its members is community service. With the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce, many community service opportunities have been provided for our members. Some events that FBLA members dedicate their time to and participate in yearly are the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce’s Business to Business event, Winter Soiree, Halloween, Business to Consumer’s Showcase, Business to Business, Crab Feed, Golf, and the Bowling Tournament; and at the Bowling Tournament. The Chamber shows its appreciation for Westmoor FBLA’s service by graciously donating a handsome check to the chapter. Westmoor FBLA enjoy participating in these events, as well as interacting with the Chamber members.

The Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce provides many of our Westmoor FBLA members with scholarships annually. Law Office of Kenneth R. Linthicum

The Law Office of Kenneth R. Linthicum is a middle class oriented firm that serves the hardworking people living on the northern peninsula. It provides highly competitive pricing for its quality legal services so that local residents can have their legal needs handled by a competent professional.

The firm’s primary focus is on family law, but is general in nature in that it also covers landlord/tenant law, estate administration, and debt collection issues.

What sets this family law practice apart from several other family law practices is its big-picture-practical approach that often gets lost by many parties during the highly volatile emotions that come into play during such events.

The general nature of this practice, along with its viable pricing, provides middle class persons with the opportunity to discuss their legal concerns with a professional and have them handled in a practical and cost efficient manner.

The firm is conveniently located just off of the Manor Drive exit on Highway One next to the ocean. Plenty of parking is also available and it is just a fifteen minute drive from anywhere on the northern peninsula.

The attorney, as a resident of Daly City, is proud to be a member of the Daly City-Colma Chamber of Commerce that so wonderfully serves the community.

Another aspect of being a Price-Simms dealership is that the entire corporation places a premium on community involvement. AutoChoice knows that its customers, staff and support come from Colma and to promote the best environment possible for our customers and ourselves, we must understand and be part of the community. To that end, we recently supported and attended the Colma Department of Recreation End of Summer Fiesta and sponsored the bike helmet giveaway at the Colma Bike Rodeo.

Come meet them in person at our Open House scheduled for Friday, October 26 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. Say hello to AutoChoice’s friendly General Manager, Yama Popal, especially if you are looking for a new pre-owned car. He’ll set you up with AutoChoices no-cost CarFinder service to scan the Bay Area to find you the exact car you’re looking for.

The holidays are coming! The holidays are coming!” ... What do we drink??

That’s right! Between now and January 2nd we’ll experience a possible 6 reasons to celebrate with loved ones, and possible revelers you barely know. You might ask, “But, what am I supposed to serve?” or “If I serve (or bring) the wrong wine, will I be considered a troglodyte?” or, “Will I be banished to the children’s table?”

Well I’m here to help you relax and make sure you find the right wine for the occasion.

First, let’s start with the menu. In the time I’ve been a Sommelier (also known as certified wine snob) I hear on a regular basis, “Oh you know… we’re having a ‘traditional’ (insert holiday here) meal.” This is a trap. Whose ‘traditions’ are we talking about? I’ve spent several years abroad and have realized what you consider ‘traditional’ is far different than what I might consider as traditional. So for arguments sake, let’s say we’re having some form of foul, with a possible second main course of something with hooves, and an alternate of a vegetarian offering. OK?

RULES:
1) There are no rules! That’s right. Toss that Wine Bible out the window. Chuck the file of “Times” articles you got from your grandfather. Recycle all the wine mags that state categorically, “This wine is a MUST buy!” Nonsense. That said, there are guidelines. If you don’t like it, you’re not going to drink it! End of game. Most American’s have been brought up drinking colas, cool-aids, or other soft drinks with their meals. When they drink wine, many times it’s too acidic (sour) or tannic (bitter) to their liking. This is where a good advisor comes in handy.

2) If the food has a salty edge (Turkey, Chicken, Asian cuisine, German, Austrian…) or is spicy, (Indian, Latin, Hungarian…) then it’s best to lean toward the sweeter styles. Riesling, American Gewürztraminer, Chenin Blanc, or possibly a Torrontes. These whites that have a fruiter flavor than some of their snootier counterparts. If you KNOW there’s going to be that pesky guest that insists on having a red wine, pick up a few bottles of Beaujolais Nouveau, Pinot Noir, a lighter style Zinfandel, or Shiraz. You can buy a Cabernet Sauvignon or Merlot. But PLEASE ask someone at the store you’re purchasing at if the wine is a “Fruit Forward” style. That’s Sommelier speak for it’s a little lighter and has a slightly sweeter tinge to it. Please notice I’m leading you toward the lighter in character wines. What we’re trying to do is balance the wine with the meal. If the wine is too strong, you never taste the food. The wine will burn the pallet. This will cause the chef to cry when they ask, “How was the meal?” and you reply, “I have no idea, but that wine is GRRRRREAT!”

3) If you’re going with a heavier, gamier ‘bill-o-fare’; I’d suggest trying a few ‘out of the ordinary’ choices. If you have heavily spiced beef or lamb, venison, buffalo, elk, etc. try a Pinotage, Rioja, Bordeaux, Malbec, or Barolo. All of these are substantial, chewy red wines that help the meat go down with out over balancing the mouth. If you have a white drinker try a heavier Chardonnay, Roussanne, Marsanne or Gavi.

4) If you are a vegetarian and want to celebrate all that is happy this holiday season; look to your spicing, the consistency of the base of the dish, and the traditional flavors that go with that. If you’re doing a ‘Tofurky’ follow the guidelines in 2) above. If you’re doing a moussaka think of the wines that go with your spicing and base. Remember, tomatoes = Chainti. Grilled portabella mushrooms? Think earthy. Possibly a Beaujolais, Malbec or American Sauvignon Blanc. Always look to what the carnivorous counterpart would be, then use the wine that goes with that meal.

5) Remember salty or spicy foods = sweeter, fruitier wines. Heavier and sweeter-meated meals = heavier and a bit more tannin filled wine.

Ask Ben Q & A

If you have anymore questions, here’s your chance!

There will be a regular feature of “Ask Ben Q & A.” I will take the e-mails you send to me and give an answer to you either in the next printing, or by e-mail. Remember, there is NO SUCH THING AS A STUPID QUESTION! We’re all learning at different paces. I could give you some brand names for your holiday gatherings, (and will if you e-mail me with a menu) but to be honest, it’s much more fun experimenting and trying new things.

REBECCA Says………..

Regular Real Estate Tips, Tidbits & Resources provided by Rebecca C. Husted, Realtor/Real Estate Consultant with Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate, Daly City

This article is being provided as a benefit of my membership in RISMedia’s TOP5 in Real Estate – while our local market is HOT, HOT, HOT – these tips will still help get TOP DOLLAR! Enjoy.

As a Member of the Top 5 in Real Estate Network®, I have a wealth of real estate and homeownership information like below that may be of help to you. Feel free to contact me any time to learn more and be sure to share this article with friends or family that may be interested as well.

Getting Your Price in an Improving Market

For the first time in several years, home prices are rising in many of the nation’s metropolitan areas. Locally, due to a lack if inventory, we are experiencing both rising prices and very competitive, multiple offer situations. This is good news for homeowners who’ve been waiting to put their homes on the market. But competition can be stiff, and the savvy seller will put a few dollars and a little elbow grease into sprucing up his property to make it more attractive to potential buyers.

Curb appeal counts – A buyer’s first impression is important. Be sure the lawns and landscaping are neatly trimmed, no toys or equipment clutter the lawn or driveway, and the front door and mat look fresh, clean, and inviting. Painting or replacing a faded front door can vastly improve the look of the property. Neutralize the rooms – Especially if you have tended toward bright paint colors, it may be time for a coat of paint to neutralize the living areas of your home. Choosing a safe off-white or cream colored paint can improve the home’s eye appeal for a greater number of buyers. Brighten the bathroom – Tired-looking or outdated bathrooms are frequently a buyer turn-off. But you don’t need to completely remodel. Replacing the sink and/or cabinet with a trendy new style or changing out the hardware for something snazzier can make a huge difference. Be sure the hanging towels and bath mat, and the shower curtain if you have one, are fresh and super clean. Tidy the kitchen – Here again, a fresh coat of paint can improve the look of your kitchen – and even older flooring or countertops will look better when cleaned to a shine. Removing clutter from the countertops – including canisters and some small appliances – will help create a feeling of space. Keep all sponges and towels out of view and be sure the sink is shiny clean and free of dirty dishes. Let the light in – Dark rooms are another turn-off. Especially when you know your home will be shown, open the drapes and curtains to let natural light in.
