FOSTERING A
BUSINESS FRIENDLY MARKET

The year is in full swing. Business is blooming in Daly City and Colma. Simply looking around, you can see the economic growth and vitality of our cities. At this point, I would like to wish all of you a productive and prosperous 2016. And, to wish the Daly City/Colma Chamber of Commerce a very happy 60th birthday!!

We started the New Year by providing an opportunity for businesses to connect with our city leaders at the State of the City, Mayor Gonzalo “Sal” Torres, Daly City and Mayor Diana Colvin, Town of Colma, each presented a presentation of the economic vitality of their respective cities. Your chamber is definitely your advocate.

Continuing with our focus of providing invaluable connection opportunities with your government and business leaders, our business community gathered together at the Major Employer Breakfast and Speak Easy held at Rene’s Fine Dining in Lucky Chances Casino, to discuss issues that impact business today. We had a great breakfast and a lot of interesting information and discussion from our panel, which included: John Ferrelli, CEO of Seton Hospital and Tina Ahn, Chief Development Officer, Dr. Charito P. Sico, Kaiser Permanente Hospital, Todd Ferrell, Ignite Credit Card Services, Matt Wexler, Comcast Spotlight, Sergeant Kevin Nishita, Colma Police Department and Captain John Gamez, Daly City Police Department. A lively question and answer portion followed, as well as a raffle for door prizes.

Then along came candles on a cake and everyone singing “Happy 60th Birthday” to our much loved Chamber at the 2016 Crab Feed, where everyone came together to laugh, socialize, raise funds for our youth’s scholarships and enjoy eating a great Caesar Salad (Outback Restaurant, Daly City), Pasta Pesto (Dennis Fisicaro) and lots of CRAB (Daly City/Colma Chamber of Commerce) with the wonderful catering (Moonstar Seafood Restaurant) and live music (George Campi). We believe firmly that foundation and fine economic maintenance is rooted in the education of our youth. In between these cornerstone events, Block

Home of Chicken and Waffles

Derreck Johnson '82 has found the recipe for business success – and its main ingredient is compassion.

Owner of the Oakland-based Home of Chicken and Waffles restaurant chain, Derreck Johnson actively employs those on parole or probation, giving them a second chance to be productive citizens. He started this practice, in 1988, when he launched his first business, a car detailing company. At the same time, he ran a production/entertainment company and also working with large firms like Gallo, Hewlett Packard and Frito Lay on their urban marketing initiatives.

Today, Johnson oversees two other Home of Chicken and Waffles sites – one in Oakland’s Jack London Square, and another in Walnut Creek. Two more locations are set to open soon – one in the E One Entertainment complex on Hegenberger Road in Oakland, and the other in the BART parking structure in Richmond. Johnson’s business philosophy is simple – provide a consistent and quality product. He stated, “The chicken and waffles concept has become popular, but we keep it very basic.”

New Year’s translates to New Beginnings! I’ve grouped your questions about health into one article.

Q: Which is healthier? Red wine or white?

A: Both contain resveratrol, which is a naturally occurring, powerful polyphenol that has a significant amount of antioxidants. This is geek-speak for— it’s good for keeping your red blood cells healthy. Red and white have resveratrol, but red contains more. An excellent article is found at: www.aim-digest.com/gateway/pages/moderate/articles/redvwhit.htm

Q: How much wine is healthy?

A: Generally, the consensus is 1-2 glasses for women and 2-3 for men a day (sorry ladies!). Now, let’s talk SIZE, shall we? A “GLASS” is defined 5oz. NOT that one liter tankard you and your collage roommate used to pound after the game! How much is 5 oz? That’s 2/3 of a cup. That’s 5 ½ - 6 glasses per 750 ml bottle.

Q: What are some other health benefits of wine?

A: Wine has been reported to: helps prevent cancer by limiting tumor growth, produce more good cholesterol, help prevent the common cold, less risk in developing type 2 diabetes, cuts risk of colon cancer, reduces risk of cataracts, lowers risk of stroke, and slows brain decline

Be healthy – Drink wine!

What Kind of Homeowner’s Insurance is Right For You?

When wading through the legalities of home buying, the process can be daunting, especially to a first time buyer. Interest rates, mortgages, appraisals, oh my! What type of homeowner’s insurance is your best bet?

For most buyers, a standard policy will do. These basic policies protect against several natural disasters/catastrophic events. However, not against earthquakes, floods, war, & nuclear accidents. Want a little extra coverage? Policies can expand to include disasters as well as coverage for workers’ compensation. In fact, a lender may require you purchase flood or earthquake insurance if the house is in those zones.

Looking for even more coverage? You can increase coverage beyond depreciated value of personal property, such as televisions and furniture, by purchasing a replacement-cost endorsement. And dome-based business-coverage, once overlooked, is an increasingly popular rider. It doesn’t cover liability associated with the business but rather contents such as home-office equipment and general liability to cover injuries to clients and employees.

Other considerations: an inflation rider, which increases coverage as the home’s value rises, and getting insurance that is equal to the full replacement value of the home. In these instances, insurance companies usually require an amount equal to at least 80 percent of the full replacement value. Otherwise, only a portion of the loss would be covered.

As a Member of the Top 5 in Real Estate Network®, I have a wealth of real estate and homeownership information that may be of help to you. Feel free to contact me any time to learn more about this important information, and be sure to forward this article on to any friends or family that may be interested as well.

FRAUD ALERT

You’ve worked hard, raised a family, and have settled into retirement where every day is a Saturday. The last thing you deserve is to fall victim to fraud and lose any of your hard earned money. Often times these scams targeting our aged population are not reported to the police or other family members out of embarrassment or fear their children will prevent them from accessing their money. According to the Stanford Center on Longevity people over 65 years of age are 34% more likely to have lost money to fraud than people in their 40s.

Below are some of the fraud schemes police see most often that you need to be aware of. If you are a senior, or have aging parents please be aware. These scams are on the rise and unfortunately our most vulnerable population are the targets of these predators. Please share this information with your family and friends.

IRS Calling – This fraud involves an alleged phone call from the IRS telling the target that she owes back taxes and must pay now, preferably using untraceable gift cards or wiring money into an account. Once the “taxes” are paid the predator disappears without a trace.

Help Me Grandpa – This fraud usually begins with a phone call to a grandparent saying, “Hi grandpa, do you know who this is?” The target then provides the name of a grandchild and the scam begins. The caller will sound very upset and say he is in trouble in another country and needs money to get home/in jail/owes someone money/etc. The grandparent is convinced to wire money and not tell anyone so the grandchild doesn’t get in trouble with mom or dad.

Home Repair/Water Department Scam – This usually involves a knock at the door or someone pulling up when you are in front of your house. The predator will say they noticed something on your house needing repairs or that you have a water leak. The target allows him into the house and while being distracted a second person will sneak into your house and steal your valuables.

Pigeon Drop – This type of fraud involves someone claiming to have won a significant amount of money and is unable to collect due to some problem. The target is told the winnings can be split if the target makes a “good faith” payment by driving to the bank and withdrawing a large sum of money. Once the target delivers the money the predator leaves to get the winnings and disappears.

Sweetheart Scam – The predator will troll online dating sites and most times target a more senior woman. The relationship begins and quickly moves off the website to avoid detection. It won’t be long before the predator says he’s in a tough situation and needs money to work it out. He says you can trust him and other thoughtful things. Once he receives the money he will continue to ask for more until suspicions arise and he disappears.

Remember, if it appears too good to be true it probably is. When in doubt hang up, walk away, close the door, and log off. Then call someone you trust…like the police.

Derreck Johnson’s business philosophy is simple – provide a consistent and quality product.

The entire menu, named after family members, is creatively hand-painted on the restaurant walls. Johnson’s dish – Derreck’s Deal – features a thigh or leg, candied yams, greens and cornbread. The restaurant vibe is easy going, with Motown and soul classics spinning in the background.

Johnson is a staunch supporter of the local community. He regularly supports local non-profit organizations, including the East Bay Youth Symphony. Johnson said, “There’s nothing more fulfilling than helping ex-offenders secure a job and a paycheck, which allows them an opportunity to rent their first apartment or purchase their first car.” He continued, “Not every ex-offender we hire is successful, but we have a really high percentage who continue to maintain their employment,” Johnson concluded, “I think that’s because when they come here and work with others who have similar backgrounds they don’t feel so isolated and ostracized. It helps their confidence a lot.”
